Ideas don't implement themselves. What's on your list?

You're the CEO and head honcho of your own business, but with that comes a host of other responsibilities; managing a team, running the day-to-day operations, and working on your next big idea to grow the business. You're spread thin on time. From looking for innovative ways to implement your next idea to streamlining a process on achieving it, the only way to get it done right is for you to do it. Why? Because either a) your team doesn't have the skillset to implement your idea effectively or b) they too are time-tapped with other business tasks and don't have the bandwidth to complete the project by the deadline. That's where StellaPop steps in. We're the folks who make things happen behind the scenes to ensure your ideas and business goals come to fruition. Just call us your idea implementers. “StellaPop has worked extensively with CAVU Advisors for the past 2 years across a wide range of consulting assignments. While originally hired to focus on culture building, our engagement expanded to include strategic advice on the growth and alignment of our organization. StellaPop's expertise, resources, and guidance have been invaluable to our organization as we have grown and transformed. Angie serving as the lead consultant has impacted numerous areas including our hiring process, on-boarding, analysis, and rollout of our annual insurance benefits while providing strategic advice on the direction and focus of our organization for the future.
